

October

Introduction

Can you believe that it is now really FALL? I love this time of year. Helping children observe, read, write, and sing about the changes that take place in the fall season is exciting! Younger children marvel at the changing leaves, crisp air, varieties of apples available, and, of course Halloween! Older children can study cycles of trees, plants, weather, and seasons.

Included this month is another topic of importance and interest for all children...fire safety. Younger children can learn about the fire triangle and safety rules. Older children can study fire -related articles in newspapers and review them, then conduct fire safety inspections at home and/or at school and present their reports orally.

Enjoy the songs and activities offered this month. If you like what you see, you may want to click on the Gift Shop and review the books and CD's referenced.

Thanks for logging on!

Dr. Maggie

